VOL. LXXXVII. CENTRE HALL, PA., THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1914. NO. 19

YOUR DUTY IS TO VOTE.

The Future of Your Party, the Welfare of the State and the Personal Interest of Every Man in It is at Stake.

Every enrolled Democrat in Pennsylvania owes it to himself, to his party and to his State to vote at the primary election on May 19; nothing should be permitted to interfere with this public duty and service. The future of your party, the welfare of the State, and the personal interest of every man in it, is at stake.

The issue in the primary contest is perfectly plain.

Do you want your party to be free and independent of Republican control, or do you want it to be in the hands of leaders who have sold you out and bartered your principles for their own profit in the past, and who would do it again if the opportunity presented itself?

Do you want your candidates to be free of the taint of special privilege and of bi-partisanship? Do you want them to be trusted fighters for good and crusaders against evil, or do you want them to be men who for the sake of hollow victory will deal with, and permit themselves to be led by, benchmen of the Penrose machine?

Do you want your party to support the Wilson Administration, which has sent its greatest spokesmen into Pennsylvania to show where it stands in this fight, or do you want your party to desert the President and join hands with his enemies to rebuke him for his consistent labors in behalf of a clean, progressive party organization and candidates?

Do you want your party to elevate slanderers and falsifiers and to reward treachery and deceit, or do you want it to pay tribute to men who have shown their ability to conduct themselves, even in the heat of the campaign, with dignity, honesty and self-control?

These are questions which every Democrat must answer between now and the day of the primary. If you favor free, independent, progressive, earnest, fearless party organization and candidates, you will go to the polls on May 19th and vote for Vance C. McCormick for Governor, A. Mitchell Palmer for United States Senator, William T. Creasy for Lieutenant Governor, and for the local candidates who stand with and for them and the Wilson progressive Democracy.

They will win at the primaries if the men who believe in the things they believe in will take the trouble to vote.

They will win in November, when they will have the earnest support of independents and progressives of every party.

The first duty of citizenship is to vote. The day is May 19.

Vote for Palmer and McCormick, and save your party from defeat and dishonor.

Candidate for U. S. Senator.

President Wilson, Secretary Bryan, Leader Underwood, Secretary Daniels, and nearly every man high in the councils of the Democratic party have made favorable expressions concerning Mr. Palmer. Below are quoted two expressions, the one by the President, and the other by Secretary Bryan:

President Wilson on Palmer:

"I do not know of any one by whom I would rather be vouched for than by Mitchell Palmer. I am proud indeed to appear under his auspices in his district, and I want to say to you confidentially that not only could you not have a better representative in Congress but I do not know of any district that has a better representative in Congress."

William Jennings Bryan on Palmer:

"That stalwart representative of progressive Democracy, who in the House of Representatives speaks not only for Pennsylvania, but speaks in part for the progressive Democracy of the United States. I congratulate Pennsylvania upon having such a leader of the party as A. Mitchell Palmer."

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

How the Ticket Will be Made Up—A Good Line of Democratic Candidates.

At the primary election on Tuesday candidates will be nominated for a number of state offices, also a candidate for supreme court judge and one for the superior court. The voters will be given two tickets. The one will be a Democratic, Republican, Washington, Socialist or Prohibition ticket—depending on the politics of the voter. The voter has no right to ask for, nor has the election board a right to give the voter any other ticket than the one representing the party under which the voter is registered.

The second ballot is a non-political judicial ballot. This ballot has on it all the candidates for judge of the Supreme and Superior courts, without indicating the political party which the candidates represent. In fact, it is presumed that the voter is not interested in the political complexion of the candidate.

On both these tickets will appear many names with which the voter is not familiar. Indeed, the voter will be surprised at the array of candidates, and in many instances will scarcely know where to place his X. The merits of the candidates for Governor have been discussed, and so have the candidates for United States Senator, and Congress in this district. It is the same with the candidates for State Senate and Assemblyman, but for the other offices little or nothing has been said.

For Representatives in Congress-at-Large the voters will vote for four, and as a guide the Reporter names four candidates who can be relied on to honestly and fairly represent the Democratic party and the interests of the people at large. The candidates are:

FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR:
A. Mitchell Palmer.

FOR GOVERNOR:
Vance C. McCormick.

FOR CONGRESS-AT-LARGE:
Robert S. Bright, Philadelphia Co.
Martin S. Caton, Allegheny Co.
Luther D. Seibert, Potter Co.
John Smith Shirley, Clarion Co.

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR:
William T. Creasy, Columbia Co.

FOR SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS:
George H. Rowley, Mercer Co.

For Judge of the Supreme Court, the man who votes for Gustav A. Endlich, of Berks county, will be doing a good service, and for Judge of Superior Court, Thomas J. Pratner, Crawford county, is as good, clean candidate as is in the field.

Judge Gustav A. Endlich.

Judge Gustav A. Endlich, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Berks County and non-partisan candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, was born in Berks county in 1856. He graduated from Princeton University in 1875, was admitted to the bar in 1877 and afterwards practiced in the Courts of Common Pleas, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and the Supreme Court of the United States. He was elected as a judge of the Court of Common Pleas in 1889 and has been retained upon the bench by successive re-elections ever since. He has been upon the bench for twenty-four years and with the exception of four has had the longest service and experience of any living Common Pleas Judge in the State.

Judge Endlich has been honored by the bar of the State by an election to the presidency of the Pennsylvania Bar Association and has delivered addresses upon legal subjects before law schools and other educational bodies. He has been made a Doctor of Literature of Laws by two colleges, has been President of the Pennsylvania German Society, and has received many other honors from colleges and learned societies. He is a profound scholar and student, familiar with the classical languages, speaks and writes German and other modern languages and is master of a clear and lucid English style.

Nurses Will Meet in Lock Haven.

The Semi-Annual meeting of The Graduate Nurses' Association of the State of Pennsylvania will be held in Lock Haven, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 26 and 27.

The first session will be held in the chapel of the Normal School on Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. Registration of members will begin at 9:30 a. m. The treasurer or her assistant will also be there to receive dues. The other sessions will be held in the board room of the hospital.

There will be discussed at these meetings some proposed changes in our bill for registration.

A meeting of the board of directors will be called on Monday at 8 p. m. at the New Irvin.

630,000,000 BUSHELS WHEAT PREDICTED.

Agricultural Department Makes Estimate of Crop Conditions in U. S.—Local Conditions First Class.

The middle of May finds the crop outlook in Centre county most promising. Wheat, grass and clover are first class on almost every farm, and unless a severe drought follows the wheat and hay crop will be one of the largest in years.

The early sown oats and barley are through the ground, and doing well. The late sowing, with favorable conditions, can make a good crop.

Some corn has been planted, but none has been reported as up.

The greatest crop of winter wheat ever grown, one-fifth again as large as the record crop grown last year and more than half again as large as that harvested in 1912, is indicated by statistics announced by the department of agriculture.

In all, 630,000,000 bushels will be produced, if the highly favorable conditions existing since the crop was planted last fall continue until harvest time.

Acresge abandoned through unfavorable conditions of the winter amounted to only 3 1 per cent of the area planted, an unusually low area. This makes the area remaining to be harvested a record one of 35,387,000 acres.

Last year's crop was 523,561 000 bushels.

The following is the report on Pennsylvania:

The Senatorial Situation.

The candidates are Mr. Wm. Cronister, a farmer from Huston township, Centre county, and Mr. W. H. Patterson, a lawyer from the town of Clearfield. Both men are capable of representing this, the 34th senatorial district, but the fact that Centre county has had no representative in the state senate since the election of the Hon. W. C. Heinle in 1898, it would seem but just and fair that Mr. Cronister receive the full Democratic vote from Centre county.

Mr. Cronister is well known to the people of both counties. He was elected sheriff of this county in 1896, when the gold Democrat and free silver tickets split the party wide open. His election was contested and he won out. He served the office with credit to the party and himself. On the day his term of office expired he moved onto his farm where he now lives and operated it ever since.

Had Mr. Patterson announced his candidacy when the office was begging someone to make the sacrifice, it is doubtful if there would have been a candidate from Centre county. But as he did not do so until some weeks after Mr. Cronister announced, Mr. Cronister should receive the united support of the party at the primaries.

Centre Countians Past Away.

Captain Oliver W. Van Valin, in Faith, South Dakota, a civil war veteran. He was born at Unionville. For a part of the time he lived at Coburn.

Miss Theresa Ingram, at Derry Station, aged twenty-five years, a daughter of Frank G. Ingram.

Orlando B. Jones, in Philipsburg hospital, aged sixty-six years. He was a resident of Philipsburg for twenty years, but after the death of his wife he made his home with his son Charles at Ramey.

State Summer School Gains.

Advance registration indicates an attendance of fully 1000 teachers at the summer session of the Pennsylvania State College, beginning the last of June. Last year 600 teachers attended. Many prominent educators will speak at the daily assemblies. Homer Rodehaver, who has charge of the music in "Billy" Sunday's campaigns, will lead at the Sunday evening campus services.

Go to the polls on Tuesday, and cast your ballot for Mr. Creasy, the farmer candidate for lieutenant governor. Mr. Creasy is the farmer's friend, and is entitled to the support of every farmer in Centre county.

"The Beautiful City."

The above is the title of the service rendered in the Reformed church of this place, last Sunday evening, by members of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The service is a religious drama, typifying the Christians journey through life. The characters are "Pilgrim," "Teacher," "Tempter," and six "Messengers." Miss Verna Rowe was the Pilgrim, Miss Lena Emerick, the Teacher, and Miss Helen Luse, the Tempter. The Messengers were, Misses Carrie Belle Emerick, Ethel Rowe, Romie Snyder, Gladys Jones, Rebecca Kreamer, and Ruth Bartges.

"Pilgrim" appears on the stage inquiring about the Beautiful City. Teacher then comes on the stage and gives the Pilgrim some instructions, directing Pilgrim to bear the cross, and to follow the Bible as her guide. She presents a Bible to the Pilgrim. Then the "Tempter" appears on the scene and endeavors to dissuade Pilgrim from carrying the cross or even seeking the Beautiful City. Pilgrim resists the Tempter and the Messengers sing and recite promises for her encouragement. The Beautiful City is in sight. Two of the Messengers take the cross from off the Pilgrim's shoulder, and all march off the platform, while the other members of the C. E. Society sing the closing piece. The service was then concluded with a solo by Mrs. S. S. Kreamer, "The Holy City."

Never was a service better rendered than this one, by the young people of Centre Hall. All, without exception, knew their part, and acted the part. The audience was captivated and remained so to the close of the service.

Do your duty next Tuesday.

REFORMED SYNOD IN SESSION.

350th Anniversary of the Heidelberg Catechism to be Celebrated—Principal Speaker Dr. Lang of Germany.

The General Synod of the Reformed church, the highest legislative body of this church, is in session in Lancaster, the opening meeting having been held Tuesday evening.

At present this Synod meets triennially, but on account of the great volume of business, the Synod may decide to meet oftener. It is likely that this question will come up at this meeting of the Synod.

The missionary activity of the church, the work of the Home and Foreign Boards will receive careful consideration. The Synod will hear reports from these boards, together with their request for an apportionment of a sum of money to carry on the work until the next meeting of this synod. All apportionments of money begin in the General Synod. These are granted by the Synod as she feels the need and finds herself able to meet those needs.

How to secure more students for the ministry is another question demanding attention of this synod, and with it the question of assisting worthy young men in preparing themselves for this great work. At present the system of "beneficiary education" is not working satisfactorily. Along with this subject of securing more men for the ministry comes another kindred subject, namely, better provision for the aged and disabled ministers of our church. It is very likely that both these subjects will come for discussion at the present meeting of the General Synod.

At this meeting of the General Synod the Reformed church closes the celebration of the 350th Anniversary of the Heidelberg Catechism, in a special program rendered on Wednesday afternoon and evening. Among the speakers secured for this occasion is Rev. Prof. A. Lang, D. D., of the University of Halle, Germany. Dr. Lang is one of the most prominent professors of theology in our mother church in Germany.

The delegates to represent West Susquehanna Classis on the floor of this synod are Revs. W. E. Harr, Lock Haven; W. D. Donat, Aaronsburg; and R. R. Jones, Centre Hall. The delegate elders are, F. A. Rupp, M. D., Lewistown; H. F. Bitner, Ph. D., Centre Hall; and A. Luckenbach, Bellefonte.

Two June Weddings.

Two weddings, in which Penns Valley young people will figure, are to be consummated next month. The first, which will occur on June 8th, will be that of Harry Harter of Millheim and Miss Rosie Smith of Spring Mills. Later in the month William Heckman, who at present is studying for the ministry at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, will take for his bride Miss Ruth Rossman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Rossman of Tusseyville.

As Others See Us.

From the Centre Democrat.

Our neighboring town, Centre Hall, as far as cleanliness is concerned, is in a class by itself. While the majority of towns and cities throughout the country are observing "Clean-Up-Week" at this season of the year, they find it is not necessary with them, as they have adopted the policy of never letting their town get dirty. Their idea of cleanliness is the best.

May Day Entertainment.

The young people of Progress Grange will give a May Day entertainment in Grange Arcadia, Saturday evening, May 23rd. Doors will open at 7 o'clock, entertainment will begin at 8 o'clock. Admission 10 and 15 cents. The entertainment will consist of marches, drills, songs, crowning the Queen of May and twining the May Pole, affording an evening of pleasant entertainment.

Reformed Classis.

The 58th annual session of West Susquehanna Classis, will be held in St. Peter's Reformed church, Reebersburg, from the 21st to the 25th of May, inclusive. The opening sermon will be delivered Thursday evening at 7:30 by the retiring president, the Rev. W. E. Harr of Lock Haven. The public is most cordially invited to attend all the sessions.

Pomona Grange Meeting.

The Centre County Pomona Grange will meet in the hall at Washington Grange, near State College, on Thursday, 28th inst. The morning session will open at ten o'clock. This is a change of date from the first announcement.

Attend the primaries on Tuesday, May 19th. The primaries give every voter an opportunity to give an expression of his preference for candidates.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

The primary election—Tuesday, 19th.

May term of court opens on Monday for a two weeks' session.

A daughter was born to Attorney W. Harrion and Mrs. Walker, in Bellefonte, on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Henry Dale and daughter Miss Anna, of Boalsburg are at the home of Mrs. Kate Sanders in Centre Hall.

John C. Rossman is having the large porch to the front of his dwelling repainted. The artists are Messrs. Arney and Luse.

Victor A. Auman, the right-hand man at Weber's Flouring Mill, is off duty as a result of a carbuncle on the back of his neck.

Ezra Tressler of State College recently went to Bedford where he again is enjoying the state highway berth of $90 per month.

While in Lancaster to attend the Reformed Synod, Rev. and Mrs. R. R. Jones will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Hosterman.

Mrs. Harry Burr of Wilkesbarre is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Crawford. The ladies are friends of one another. Mrs. Burr will remain for some time.

September 12 to 18 will be the week of the Grange Encampment and Fair this year, for which the committee is already making preparations for a bigger and better fair than ever.

Joseph Royer of near Zion, Dal Smetzler and William Zeigler of Spring township were among the farmers in Nittany Valley to purchase automobiles during this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Homan and little son of Altoona arrived in Centre Hall the latter part of last week and for a short time will remain with the former's mother, Mrs. Emma Homan.

Forty thousand white pine seedlings have been apportioned Forester Houtz to plant on the Green's Valley forest reserve. The forestry department of the state will plant a total of 1,500,000 trees this spring.

A concrete foundation made of the right cement is like a wall of solid stone, without mortar to fall out or cracks to let in cold and water. A new lot of Alpha Portland Cement just in.—R. D. Foreman.

Rev. G. W. McIlnay delivered a sermon to the Mackinaw Lodge, No. 380, I. O. O. F., at New Bloomfield, Sunday of last week, in the M. E. church. It was a special occasion and the sermon was a very appropriate one.

Mrs. J. W. Conley, Rev. and Mrs. R. R. Jones, Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Bitner and son Lynn are in Lancaster, having gone there Tuesday. The Synod of the Reformed church meets in that city, and the sessions will be attended by them.

While working on a lumber tract in Sugar Valley, Clinton county, Henry Shalter, of White Deer, shot a bald eagle that stood between three and four feet high and measured seven feet from tip to tip of its wings. It had a white head and breast, and its bill was of great size.

The most recent farmer who has availed himself of the pleasure of riding to town in his own automobile is Martin M. Keller, a Potter township farmer living near Linden Hall. Thursday of last week he purchased a handsome five-passenger Buick car from Dr. L. E. Kidder of Boalsburg.

Mrs. J. W. Conley is in Lancaster and will remain with her cousin, Miss Sarah Goodman, for several weeks. Mrs. Conley, on Monday, reached her seventy-fourth birthday, and is enjoying the best of health. She made the trip to Lancaster on Tuesday and was in company with a number who will attend the meetings of the Reformed Synod.

A valuable black horse belonging to Rome Gingerich, at Linden Hall, performed an acrobatic stunt one day last week that turned out without injury to him but gave his owner the chills while the performance was in progress. The animal broke from the pasture lot, and attempted to cross a railroad bridge. He fell between the ties, but struggled to his feet and plunged over the side of the bridge into the water, sixteen feet below.

Wednesday of last week a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Bailey. For a handy name he will be known as "Dick," but on official papers the name will appear Richard Smith Bailey. He came eight pounds big. He at once took such an active interest in his father's business, that he was immediately admitted as a partner in the publishing firm of Smith & Bailey. There was a crying need for such a helper, and he is doing his part night and day.

RUSHING WORK ON TRANSPORTS

Invasion of Mexico By a Big Army Looks Certain.

MEDIATORS TO GO AHEAD

Monitor Ozark Ordered To Tampico. Carden Again Warns the British To Leave Mexico City.

Mexican Developments.

Sir Lionel Carden again advised British subjects to leave Mexico City. There are about 600 Americans remaining.

With the departure from Mexico City of Huerta's representatives, the mediators' gathereing at Niagara Falls May 18 is assured.

Military energy was again devoted to making ready for sending reinforcements to Vera Cruz. In the absence of any warlike developments, it was apparent that efforts are being made to keep down military excitement so that nothing will happen to embarrass the mediators.

Private Parks, the American soldier who disappeared with two horses, is said to be within the Mexican lines. Parks is called "apparently insane" in an official report.

Secretary Bryan announced that the complication over shipment of arms to Huerta had been settled. Nothing was landed from the Kronprinzessin Cecilie at Puerto Mexico.

Three newspaper correspondents and a photographer named Sutton, of Washington, were arrested in Mexico City and taken to jail. They were released after protest.

Washington, D. C.—The opening of the Mexican mediation conference at Niagara Falls on the scheduled date, May 18, was assured when word was received of the departure of the Mexican delegates from Mexico City for the conference.

Preparations are being made for dispatching reinforcements to General Funston at Vera Cruz should such a movement become necessary, work on 12 transports to carry troops, horses and supplies is being pushed, and the military apparently is being kept well in leash to avoid embarrassing the mediation negotiations.

A threatening cloud disappeared from the diplomatic horizon when the German steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie, reported to be carrying arms and ammunition for Huerta, returned to Vera Cruz without debarking her was stores at Puerto Mexico, and it was announced that the munitions on this and a second German steamer, the Bavaria, would be returned to Germany. The possibility either of a seizure of Blockade of Puerto Mexico or of an act perhaps interpretable as a violation of the military status quo in favor of Huerta thereby was eliminated.

With possible hindrances to mediation from the Puerto Mexico incident, the delay in the departure of the Huerta delegates and the protest of General Huerta about alleged violations of the armistice understanding cleared away or in process of disappearance, the South American mediators, it is understood, see nothing on the horizon to check the beginning of the mediators' formal proceedings May 18.

Huerta, as far as was known, had expressed no dissatisfaction with the reply of the United States to his protest and the actual departure of the delegates was taken as an earnest of his serious intention to proceed with mediation. His delegates are expected to come to Washington from Key West or Galveston. They, of course, will have safe conduct through the American lines at Vera Cruz.

WOMEN SEE HUSBANDS KILLED.

Couples Were Walking On Tracks; Men Struck By Train.

Roanoke, Va.—Richard Ratcliffe, 45 years old, and his son James Ratcliffe, 24, were run down by a train at Thacker, W. Va., the wives of both men seeing their husbands crushed to death. The Ratcliffes were returning from a party and the men were walking ahead of the women on the track. A freight train was passing, going West, and the noise of the train confused the men and they were struck by an eastbound train. The women escaped injury.

MAY CONSIDER PROHIBITION.

House Lays Itself Open Also To Suffrage Question.

Washington, D. C.—The caucus of House Democrats Tuesday evening, instead of being limited to anti-trust legislation, rural credits and the appropriation bills, has been technically thrown open to any question in the legislative category. The formal call for the caucus states its purpose to be to decide what bills shall be passed during the remainder of the session.

AMERICA HAS 4,222 FOREIGN STUDENTS

CANADIANS ARE IN THE LEAD

Japs and Chinese Next—Latin America, Europe and Even Antipodes Are Well Represented.

Washington, D. C.—There were 4,222 foreign students in attendance at colleges and universities in the United States in the year 1913, according to figures just compiled at the United States Bureau of Education. This is an increase of 577 in two years.

These students are not concentrated at the larger and better known institutions, as might be expected, but are distributed over 275 different colleges, universities and schools of technology. The number given includes only regular students of college or graduate grade; if students enrolled in preparatory departments, short-term courses, summer schools and independent professional schools were included, the total would be very much larger.

Canada has the largest representation—653 students are from the Dominion. China and Japan are not far behind—there were 594 Chinese students and 386 from Japan attending colleges in the United States in 1913. Of the other Oriental or Asiatic peoples, India is represented by 162; Turkey by 143; Korea by 13; Persia by 21, and Siam by 13.

Latin-America is strongly represented. Cuba sends 209; Costa Rica, 29; Guatemala, 15; Honduras, 12; Nicaragua, 18; Panama, 28, and Salvador, 19. Mexico heads the list with 223 students. From South America, Argentine sends 43 students to our colleges; Brazil, 143; Bolivia, 3; Chile, 12; Colombia, 37; Ecuador, 15; Paraguay, 2; Peru, 25; Uruguay, 2, and Venezuela, 7.

Even Australia and Africa have students at colleges in the United States. There are 56 students from New Zealand. Africa is represented by 15 from Egypt, two from Liberia and 44 from South Africa.

From American possessions 434 students came to college in the United States; 108 from Hawaii; 215 from Porto Rico, and 111 from the Philippine Islands.

KILLED BY POLICE CHIEF.

Harrison Kendall Shot While Resisting Arrest.

Clarksburg, W. Va. — Pistol-shot wounds, received a week ago, when he and four brothers resisted arrest at Northview and were fired on by J. H. Nicholson, police chief of the suburb, caused the death of Harrison Kendall, a coal miner, 26 years old, in St. Mary's Hospital here. Dr. S. M. Mason, coroner, is investigating the case, but no action has been taken thus far in regard to Nicholson, who declares the five Kendall brothers attacked him and another officer with a hatchet, clubs and stones.

CALLS FOR CONSUL'S RELEASE.

United States Urges Huerta To Free Silliman.

Washington, D. C.—Urgent representations were made by the State Department through the Brazilian Embassy to the Huerta Government seeking the release of Vice-Consul John R. Silliman, who is reported held by the Mexican Federals at Saltillo. Consul Silliman was reported taken by the Huerta forces while on a trip to San Luis Potosi and all efforts of the State Department to locate him so far have been futile.

$500,000 TO P. E. CATHEDRAL.

New York Woman Will Erect Washington Sanctuary.

New York. — Announcement was made here that Mrs. Archibald Douglas Russell, of New York, will erect the sanctuary in connection with the National Cathedral of the Episcopal Church to be constructed at Washington. The cost of the sanctuary, it was said, will approximate $500,000.

WEEKS TO GET REFUGEES OUT.

Admiral Badger's Estimate To the Navy Department.

Washington, D. C.—Rear-Admiral Badger estimated in a dispatch to the Navy Department that it will probably be several weeks before all American refugees are out of Mexico. He reported that the steamer Esperanza left Puerto Mexico with 634 refugees oboard.

KILLED AT THE MINES.

One American and Two British Subjects Victims Of Bandits.

Washington, D. C.—One American and two British subjects have been killed at mines in the vicinity of Guadalajara. A Mr. Russell, presumably a British subject, and 7 Americans are cut off by bandits in the vicinity. Other Americans are safe. This information came in a dispatch from the British vice consul at Guadalajara to the British embassy here.

MEDIATORS OF THE MEXICAN TROUBLE

These are the three South American diplomats who are acting as mediators in the Mexican embroglio. They are Ambassador da Gama of Brazil and Ministers Mujica of Chile and Naon of Argentina.

MADE MILLIONS ON NEW HAVEN STOCK

Unraveling Startling New Haven Road Deals.

A STORY OF HIGH FINANCE

Head Of Company Makes a Statement Of His Transactions, Claiming He Considered Himself Entitled To the Big Profit.

Washington, D. C.—"High finance" related to the affairs of the New Haven Railroad was revealed in a remarkable statement in the Interstate Commerce Commission inquiry by John L. Billard, of New Haven, Conn., president of the celebrated "Billard Company" and former director of the New Haven Railroad.

Billard admitted making profits running into millions in transactions in stock of the New Haven road and its subsidiaries. But he denied that the railrdad or any official had any interest in the Billard Company. He said his stock deals, except one, and the Billard Company were strictly private enterprises.

Before he became a New Haven director in 1907 Billard said he bought 109,900 shares of Boston and Maine stock for $13,743,500—at 125—from the New Haven Company and sold them back at $150 a share—netting a profit of $2,748,750—to the Boston Railroad Holding Company, organized by the New Haven as a subsidiary.

"Both in the purchase and resale of this stock," Billard said, "the negotiations between me and the railroad company were absolutely free from any secret arrangement or understanding.

THE GREATEST WHEAT CROP.

One-fifth Greater Than Previous Record Winter Wheat Harvest.

Washington, D. C.—The greatest crop of wheat ever grown, one-fifth again as large as that grown in 1912, grown last year, and more than half again as large as the record crop is indicated by statistics announced by the Department of Agriculture.

In all, 630,000,000 bushels will be produced if the highly favorable conditions existing since the crop was planted last fall continue until harvest time. The acreage abandoned through unfavorable conditions of the winter amounted to only 3.1 per cent. of the area planted, an unusually low area. This makes the area remaining to be harvested a record one of 35,387,000 acres.

Indications are that Kansas will have a crop of 132,000,000 bushels, or 45,500,000 bushels more than last year, and Oklahoma 35,500,000, or 17,000,000 bushels more than last year.

Winter wheat: Condition 95.9. Area remaining to be harvested 35,387,000 acres, or 1,119,000 acres less than planted last autumn, but 3,688,000 acres more than harvested last year.

Indicated yield per acre, 17.8 bushels. Indicated production, 630,000,000 bushels.

These figures compare with conditions of 95.6 on April 1, and 91.9 on May 1, 1913.

REPORT ON "DRY" BILL ORDERED.

Suffrage Measure Also Ready For House.

Washington, D. C.—Joint resolutions proposing amendment to the Federal Constitution to extend the right of suffrage to women and for nation-wide prohibition were ordered reported, without recommendation, to the House by the Judiciary Committee. The vote was viva voce and carried overwhelmingly.

BOMB DROPPED FROM BIPLANE

Four Killed and Eight Injured at Mazatlan.

REBELS DROP THE EXPLOSIVE

On Board U. S. S. California, Mazatlan, Mex. (Via Wireless to San Diego.—Four persons were killed and eight more injured by the explosion of a bomb that was dropped into the city streets from a rebel biplane.

Firing between the rebel and federal fortifications continues and in the artillery duel the besieging forces have had the better of it so far.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Mazatlan, the Mexican west coast city, surrendered to the constitutionalists, according to a dispatch received by Adolfo Carillo, Carranza's representative in this city. There was still fighting, the dispatch adds, general Guerrera driving a part of the federal garrison toward the water front.

The dispatch was signed Febela, secretary of foreign affairs, Chihuahua. General Tellez, the federal commander sent word to the constitutionalists that he could do nothing but surrender.

Washington. — The fighting at Mazatlan, with the fatal work done by the rebel biplane, is in continuance of the fighting already reported here from two sources, Admiral Howard and General Carranza.

Admiral Howard's report described the constitutionalist forces as entrenched on Piedra Island in the harbor, and pouring fire from rifles and field guns against the federal gunboat Gorelos. The latter was returning the fire, supported by the land batteries still held by the federals.

General Carranza's report, telegraphed to Rafael Zubaran, has confidential agent here, said the federal gunboat Morelos had grounded on Piedra Island and had been put out of commission by artillery fire.

YACHT REPORTED CAPTURED.

Mexicans Said To Have Seized Party Of Californians.

San Francisco.—Reports received here that the yacht Iola, carrying Arthur Payne, of Menlo Park, Cal., and a sporting expedition, had been captured by Mexicans, caused Payne's relatives to ask the aid of the State Department. The Iola was bound for the Tiburon Islands and touched at San Diego, April 8.

U. S. FLAG ON MEXICAN ISLAND.

Californians Claim Coronado Group By "Right Of Conquest."

San Diego, Cal.—Several wealthy men from Colorado Springs and Coronado, Cal., went out in a yacht to the Coronado Islands and scaled one of them, raising the American flag on a 500-foot pinnacle. They claimed the islands "by right of conquest." The islands are Mexican territory.

TESTING INCOME TAX LAW.

First Case Filed In United States Supreme Court.

Washington, D. C.—The first case to reach the Supreme Court involving directly the constitutionality of the federal income tax was docketed Thursday. It was an appeal from the refusal of the Federal District Court in Southern New York to enjoin the Union Pacific Railroad at the instance of a stockholder, Frank R. Brushaber, from paying the tax.

MILITIA ARMY PLANNED

50,000 Men May Be Called To Reinforce Regulars Along the Mexican Border.

Washington, D. C.—An army of at least 50,000 State troops for the reinforcement of the regulars is being planned by the War Department.

Categorical denials were issued of any marked activity in this direction, but it is known in Washington that the General Staff of the army has recommended that no time be lost in concentrating and equipping such a force with which to meet possible eventualities.

To this end the Division of Militia Affairs of the War Department communicated with the adjutant-generals of a number of States to ascertain definitely how many troops each of them could furnish upon short notice for the Mexican campaign.

Governors Applied To.

In the case of three of the States—New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio—the Governors themselves were, it is stated, apprised of the acuteness of the Mexican situation and requested to inform the War Department how many fully equipped troops each of them could put into the field without further recruiting.

Latest inquiries of the department were directed toward ascertaining how soon the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio troops could be put in motion, in their present condition, without delay that would be necessitated by recruiting them up to full war strength. In the theoretical organization of the militia the Pennsylvania and New York State each made up a full tactical division. They are the only States to supply a full division quota. Ohio combines with Michigan to fill a division, and the other divisions are made up of several States each.

NO FORMAL ARMISTICE

Only An Assumption That Fighting Would Be Suspended Except To Repel Attack.

Washington, D. C.—Officials here point out that neither the United States nor General Huerta has yet entered into any formal armistice.

What occurred was this: The mediators suggested that hostilities should be suspended during the period of negotiations. To this Secretary Bryan replied that it was assumed there would be a suspension of hostilities except to repel attack.

General Huerta's answer was understood to be an acceptance, but the exact terms have not been given out. Mr. Bryan has several times pointed out that this did not constitute a formal armistice, but only an assumption that hostilities would be suspended except to resist aggression.

Article VII of The Hague convention, of which the United States and Mexico are signatories, provides specifically on troop movement pending mediation as follows:

"Article VII. The acceptance of mediation cannot, unless there be an agreement to the contrary, have the effect of interrupting, delaying or hindering mobilization or other measures or preparation for war.

"If mediation occurs after the commencement of hostilities, it causes no interruption to the military operations in progress unless there be an agreement to the contrary."

MAKES NO MOVE TO QUIT

Huerta Credited With Saying He Would First See City In Ashes. Zapatistas Still Fight Him.

Vera Cruz.—Mexicans arriving here from Mexico City say that General Huerta shows no intention of abandoning the presidency of Mexico. The President, they assert, is popularly credited with having made the statement that he would see the capital in ashes before he left it.

Private Parks, orderly for Lieut.-Col. Elmore F. Taggart, Twenty-eighth Infantry, and two of the officer's horses disappeared beyond the American lines and into the lines of Gen. Gustavo Maas, where the soldier and the animals presumably are being held.

General Maas released G. H. Coxon, manager of the Vera Cruz Street Railway Company, whom he had held as prisoner at Soledad. Mr. Coxon, who is a British subject, arrived here.

Several Mexicans, alleged snipers, arrested by the American naval forces at Vera Cruz during the fighting and after its conclusion, will be tried by a military commission, after the disposition of five South Americans.

Even if the guilt of the South Americans be established, there is no disposition on the part of the judges to impose the extreme penalty. It is understood the men are to be placed on trial more for the purpose of establishing the cause for their arrest in case their governments file claims against the United States.

250 REPORTED CRUCIFIED.

Bodies Of Mohammedan Albanians and Church Then Burned.

Durazzo, Albania.—Two hundred and fifty Mohammedan Albanians, captured by the Epirote invaders at Hormova, were crucified in the Orthodox Church at Kodra, according to information received by the Albanian Government. The Epirotes are said to have set fire to the church afterwards and allowed the bodies to burn.

183 DIE IN QUAKE NEAR MT. ETNA

Sicilian Villages Destroyed By Seismic Disturbance.

350 PERSONS ARE INJURED

Peasants Working In the Fields Saw Their Houses Collapse, Burying Wives and Children—Work Of Rescuers.

Catania, Sicily.—A great earthquake brought death and destruction to many villages near Mount Etna. The number of dead so far is officially placed at 183, with about 350 injured, but as yet a large portion of the devastated territory has not been inspected.

The affected zone extends from Zaffarana, the highest village on Mt. Etna, to the sea between Aci Reale on the south, and Giarre on the north. It includes Linera, the center of the disturbance, Pisano and Santa Venerina.

In Linera alone 110 persons were killed and 300 injured. In the village of Bongiardo 13 dead and 27 injured have been taken from the ruins. At Cosentini 16 were killed and many injured. These villages and many smaller places were practically leveled.

At Passopomo 12 persons were killed; at Malabi, 12; at Santa Veneria, 6; Canta Telca, 2; Santa Maria Vergine, 8; Garbati, 4.

Automobiles which made the trip through the devastated region were often forced to make a long detour owing to the deep fissures across the road. The enormous force of the earthquake was evident everywhere and the entire district presented a spectacle of desolation, ruin and death. Peasants rushed to meet the automobiles, imploring aid. From the debris agonizing cries could still be heard. Others asked that their injuried relatives be transported to Catania, as all train service has been abandoned owing to the collapse of bridges, broken tracks and obstructed tunnels.

For centuries this region has suffered from earthquakes, owing to the activity of Mount Etna. Yet it is relatively thickly populated, as the land is most fertile, vineyards growing with little attention. Near the central point of the disturbance dozens of bodies were observed lying along the road. Many of them were unrecognizable, as they were badly crushed. Heart-rending lamentations arose on all sides, and the injured lay in the open awaiting assistance which has been sent to them.

Saw Their Houses Collapse.

Where Linera stood is a mass of ruins. Those houses which did not collapse entirely were so broken as to emphasize the completeness of the disaster. The village consisted of about 800 inhabitants. A majority of the people escaped because the shock occurred when the men and some of the women were still working in the fields. From the vineyards they saw their housees falling like a pack of cards, and when they arrived, breathless, at their homes, they found only wreckage with some of their people buried beneath it. This accounts for the fact that most of the victims at Linera were women and children. The men, wild with terror and grief, attacked the debris with their bare hands in an effort to save their wives or children.

Generals Trabucchi and Moccagatta are in command of the work of rescue, which is being expeditiously performed by soldiers, firemen, policemen and Red Cross volunteers. It is expected, however, that weeks will pass before the full extent of the disaster can be ascertained, as it is believed many peasants are buried under their homes in the isolated country districts.

CHARLES W. POST ENDS LIFE.

Millionaire Shoots Himself With Rifle At Santa Barbara.

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Charles W. Post, wealthy cereal food manufacturer of Battle Creek, Mich., shot himself to death with a rifle while temporiraly insane, according to the testimony of his physician, Dr. J. C. Bainbridge, offered at the inquest held shortly after the tragedy. The verdict of the coroner's jury was non-committal, holding simply that Mr. Post had died from the effects of a gunshot wound.

Mr. Post had suffered ill health for some time. Recently he made a hurried trip to Rochester, Minn. ,to undergo a major operation to save his life. He had been in a nervous state since his return to California and had fought against an inclination to suicide for some time, according to the testimony given at the inquest by Miss Ella Benson, his nurse.

FOUR PERSONS DIE IN FIRE.

Clergyman and Three Women Servants Victims Of Blaze.

Newark, N. J.—Four persons were burned to death in a fire which swept through a large brick and stone apartment house on Broad street. Three of the victims were servants, all women; the fourth was Rev. Dr. A. H. Young, a retired Presbyterian clergyman, who was gotten out of the building, but who died later in the hospital.

The VALIANTS of VIRGINIA

SYNOPSIS.

John Valiant, a rich society favorite, suddenly discovers that the Valiant corporation, which his father founded and which was the principal source of his wealth, has failed. He voluntarily turns over his private fortune to the receiver for the corporation. His entire remaining possessions consist of an old motor car, a white bull dog and Damory court, a neglected estate in Virginia. On the way to Damory court he meets Shirley Dandridge, an auburn-haired beauty, and decides that he is going to like Virginia immensely. Shirley's mother, Mrs. Dandridge, and Major Bristow exchange reminiscences during which it is revealed that the major, Valiant's father, and a man named Sassoon were rivals for the hand of Mrs. Dandridge in her youth. Sassoon and Valiant fought a duel on her account in which the former was killed. Valiant finds Damory court overgrown with weeds and creepers and the buildings in a very much neglected condition. Valiant explores his ancestral home. He is surprised by a fox hunting party which invades his estate. He recognizes Shirley at the head of the party. He gives sanctuary to the cornered fox. Gossips discuss the advent of the new owner and recall the tragedy in which the elder Valiant took part. Valiant decides to rehabilitate Damory court and make the land produce a living for him.

They stood on the edge of a stony ravine which widened at one end to a shallow marshy valley. The rocks were covered with gray-green feathery creepers, enwound with curly yellow tendrils of love-vine. Across the ravine, on a lower level, began a grove of splendid trees that marched up into the long stretch of neglected forest he had seen from the house.

"You love it?" he asked, without withdrawing his eyes.

"I've loved it all my life. I love everything about Damory Court. Ruined as it is, it is still one of the most beautiful estates in all Virginia. There's nothing finer even in Italy. Just behind us, where those hemlocks stand, is where the duel the children spoke of was fought."

He turned his head. "Tell me about it," he said.

She glanced at him curiously. "Didn't you know? That was the reason the place was abandoned. Valiant, who lived here, and the owner of another plantation, who was named Sassoon, quarreled. They fought, the story is, under those big hemlock trees. Sassoon was killed."

He looked out across the distance; he could not trust his face. "And—Valiant?"

"He went away the same day and never came back; he lived in New York till he died. He was the father of the court's present owner. You never heard the story?"

"No," he admitted. "I—till quite recently I never heard of Damory Court."

"That was the last duel ever fought in Virginia. Dueling was a dreadful custom. I'm glad it's gone. Aren't you?"

"Yes," he said slowly, "it was a thing that cut two ways. Perhaps Valiant, if he could have had his choice afterward, would rather have been lying there that morning than Sassoon."

"He must have suffered, too," she agreed, "or he wouldn't have exiled himself as he did. I used to wonder if it was a love-quarrel—whether they could have been in love with the same woman."

"But why should he go away?"

"I can't imagine, unless she had really loved the other man. If so, she couldn't have borne seeing Valiant afterward." She paused with a little laugh. "But then," she said, "it may have been nothing so romantic. Valiant's grandfather, who was known as Devil-John, is said to have called a man out because he rode past him on the wrong side. Our ancestors in Virginia, I'm afraid, didn't stand on ceremony when they felt uppish."

He did not smile. He was looking out once more over the luminous stretch of fields, his side-face towards her. Curious and painful questions were running through his brain. With an effort, he thrust these back and recalled his attention to what she was saying.

"You wonder, I suppose, that we feel as we do toward these old estates, and set store by them, and—yes, and brag of them insufferably as we do. But it's in our blood. You Northerners think we're desperately conceited," she smiled, "but it's true. We're still as proud of our land, and its old, old places, and love them as well as our ancestors ever did. Do you wonder we resent their passing to people who don't care for them in the Southern way?"

"But suppose the newcomers do care for them?"

Her lips curled. "A young millionaire who has lived all his life in New York, to care for Damory Court! A youth idiotically rich, brought up in a superheated atmosphere of noise and money!"

He started uncontrollably. So that was what she thought! He felt himself flushing. He had wondered what would be his impression of the neighborhood and its people; their possible opinion of himself had never occurred to him.

"You think there's no chance of his choosing to stay here because he actually likes it?"

"Not the slightest," she said indifferently.

"You are so certain of this without ever having seen him?"

She glanced at him covertly, annoyedly sensible of the impropriety of the discussion, since the man discussed was certainly his patron, maybe his friend. But his insistence had roused a certain balky wilfulness that would have its way. "It's true I've never seen him," she said, "but I've read about him a hundred times in the Sunday supplements. He's a regular feature of the high-roller section. His idea of a good time is a dog-banquet at Sherry's. Why, a girl told me once that there was a cigarette named after him—the Vanity Valiant!"

"Isn't that beside the point? Because he has been an idler, must he necessarily be a—vandal?"

She laughed again. "He wouldn't call it vandalism. He'd think it decided improvement to make Damory Court as frantically different as possible. I suppose he'll erect a glass cupola and a porte-cochere, all up-to-date and varnishy, and put orchid hothouses where the wilderness garden was, and a modern marble cupid instead of the summer-house, and lay out a kite-shaped track—"

Everything that was impulsive and explosive in John Valiant's nature came out with a bang. "No!" he cried, "whatever else he is, he's not such a preposterous ass as that!"

She faced him squarely now. Her eyes were sparkling. "Since you know him so intimately and so highly approve of him—"

"No, no," he interrupted. "You mistake me. I shouldn't try to justify him." His flush had risen to the roots of his brown hair, but he did not lower his gaze. Now the red color slowly ebbed, leaving him pale. "He has been an idler—that's true enough—and till a week ago he was 'idiotically rich.' But his idling is over now. At this moment, except for this one property, he is little better than a beggar."

She had taken a hasty step or two back from him, and her eyes were now fixed on his with a dawning half-fearful question in them.

"Till the failure of the Valiant Corporation, he had never heard of Damory Court, much less been aware that he owned it. It wasn't because he loved it that he came here—no! How could it be? He had never set foot in Virginia in his mortal life."

She put up her hands to her throat with a start. "Came?" she echoed. "Came!"

"But if you think that even he could be so crassly stupid, so monumentally blind to all that is really fine and beautiful—"

"Oh!" she cried with flashing comprehension. "Oh, how could you! You—"

He nodded curtly. "Yes," he said. "I am that haphazard harlequin, John Valiant, himself."

CHAPTER XIV.

On the Edge of the World.

There was a pause not to be reckoned by minutes but suffocatingly long. She had grown as pale as he.

"That was ungenerous of you," she said then with icy slowness. "Though no doubt you—found it entertaining. It must have still further amused you to be taken for an architect?"

"I am flattered," he replied, with a trace of bitterness, "to have suggested

The Next Moment, With Clenched Teeth, He Was Viciously Stamping His Heel Again and Again.

even for a moment, so worthy a calling."

At his answer she put out her hand with sudden gesture, as if bluntly thrusting the matter from her concern, and turning went back along the tree-shadowed path.

He followed glumly, gnawing his lip, wanting to say he knew not what, but wretchedly tongue-tied, noting that the great white moth was still waving its creamy wings on the dead stump and wondering if she would take the cape jessamines. He felt an embarrassed relief when, passing the roots where they lay, she stooped to raise them.

Then all at once the blood seemed to shrink from his heart. With a hoarse cry he leaped toward her, seized her wrist and roughly dragged her back, feeling as he did so, a sharp fiery sting on his instep. The next moment, with clenched teeth, he was viciously stamping his heel again and again, driving into the soft earth a twisting root-like something that slapped the brown wintered leaves into a hissing turmoil.

He had flung her from him with such violence that she had fallen sidewise. Now she raised herself, kneeling in the feathery light, both hands clasped close to her breast, trembling excessively with loathing and feeling the dun earth-floor billow like a canvas sea in a theater. Little puffs of dust from the protesting ground were wreathing about her set face, and she pressed one hand against her shoulder to repress her shivers.

"The horrible — horrible — thing!" she said whisperingly. "It would have bitten me!"

He came toward her, panting, and grasping her hand, lifted her to her feet. He staggered slightly as he did so, and she saw his lips twist together oddly. "Ah," she gasped, "it bit you! It bit you!"

"No," he said, "I think not."

"Look! There on your ankle—that spot!"

"I did feel something, just that first moment." He laughed uncertainly. "It's queer. My foot's gone fast asleep."

Every remnant of color left her face. She had known a negro child who had died of a water-moccasin's bite some years before—the child of a house-servant. It had been wading in the creek in the gorge. The doctor had said then that if one of the other children. • • •

She grasped his arm. "Sit down," she commanded, "here, on this log, and see."

Her pale fright caught him. He obeyed, dragged off the low shoe and bared the tingling spot. The firm white flesh was puffing up around two tiny blue-rimmed punctures. He reached into his pocket, then remembered that he had no knife. As the next best thing he knotted his handkerchief quickly above the ankle, thrust a stick through the loop and twisted it till the ligature cut deeply, while she knelt beside him, her lips moving soundlessly, saying over and over to herself words like these: "I must not be frightened. He doesn't realize the danger, but I do! I must be quite collected. It is a mile to the doctor's. I might run to the house and send Unc' Jefferson, but it would take too long. Besides, the doctor might not be there. There is no one to do anything but me."

She crouched beside him, putting her hands by his on the stick and wrenching it over with all her strength. "Tighter, tighter," she said. "It must be tighter." But, to her dismay, at the last turn the improvised cord snapped, and the released stick flew a dozen feet away.

Her heart leaped chokingly, then dropped into hammer-like thudding. He leaned back on one arm, trying to laugh, but she noted that his breath came shortly as if he had been running. "Absurd!" he said, frowning. "How such—a fool thing—can hurt!"

Suddenly she threw herself on the ground and grasped the foot with both hands. He could see her face twitch with shuddering, and her eyes dilating with some determined purpose.

"What are you going to do?"

"This," she said, and he felt her shrinking lips, warm and tremulous, pressed hard against his instep.

He drew away sharply, with savage denial. "No—no! Not that! You shan't! My lord—you shan't!" He dragged his numbing foot from her desperate grasp, lifting himself, pushing her from him; but she fought with him, clinging, panting broken sentences:

"You must! It's the only way. It was—a moccasin, and it's deadly. Every minute counts!"

"I won't. No, stop! How do you know? It's not going to—here, listen! Take your hands away. Listen!—Listen! I can go to the house and send Uncle Jefferson for the doctor and he—No! stop, I say! Oh—I'm sorry if I hurt you. How strong you are!"

"Let me!"

"No! Your lips are not for that—good God, that damnable thing! You yourself might be—"

"Let me! Oh, how cruel you are! It was my fault. But for me it would never have—"

"No! I would rather—"

"Let me! Oh, if you died!"

With all the force of her strong young body she wrenched away his protestant hands. A thirst and a sickish feeling were upon him, a curious irresponsible giddiness, and her hair which that struggle had brought in tumbled masses about her shoulders, seemed to have little flames running all over it. His foot had entirely lost its feeling. There was a strange weakness in his limbs.

Moments of half-consciousness, or consciousness jumbled with strange imaginings, followed. At times he felt the pressure upon the wounded foot, was sensible of the suction of the young mouth striving desperately to draw the poison from the wound. From time to time he was conscious of a white desperate face haloed with hair that was a mist of woven sparkles. At times he thought himself a recumbent stone statue in a wood, and her a great tall golden-headed flower lying broken at his feet. Again he was a granite boulder and she a vine with yellow leaves winding and clinging about him. Then a blank—a sense of movement and of troublous disturbance, of insistent voices that called to him and inquisitive hands that plucked at him, and then voices growing distant again, and hands falling away, and at last—silence.

• • • • • • • • •

Inky clouds were gathering over the sunlight when Shirley came from Damory Court, along the narrow wood-path under the hemlocks, and the way was striped with blue-black shadows and filled with sighing noises. She walked warily, halting often at some leafy rustle to catch a quick breath of dread. As she approached the tree-roots where the cape jessamines lay, she had to force her feet forward by sheer effort of will. At a little distance from them she broke a stick and with it managed to drag the bunch to her, turning her eyes with a shiver from the trampled spot near by. She picked up the flowers, and treading with caution, retraced her steps to the wider path.

She stepped into the Red Road at length in the teeth of a thunder-storm, which had arisen almost without warning to break with the passionate intensity of electric storms in the South.

There was no shelter, but even had there been, she would not have sought it. The turbulence of nature around her matched, in a way, her overstrained feeling, and she welcomed the fierce bulge of the wind in the up-blowing whorls of her hair and the drenching wetness of the rain. She tried to fix her mind on near things, the bending grasses, the scurrying red runnels and flapping shrubbery, but her thoughts wilfully escaped the tether, turning again and again to the events of the last two hours. She pictured Unc' Jefferson's eyes rolling up in ridiculous alarm, his winnowing arm lashing his indignant mule in his flight for the doctor.

At the mental picture she choked with hysterical laughter, then cringed suddenly against the sopping bark. She saw again the doctor's gaze lift from his first examination of the tiny punctures to send a swift penetrant glance at her, before he bent his great body to carry the unconscious man to the house. Again a fit of shuddering swept over her. Then, all at once, tears came, strangling sobs that bent and swayed her. It was the discharge of the Leyden jar, the loosing of the tense bow-string and it brought relief. After a time she grew quieter. He would get well! The thought that perhaps she had saved his life gave her a thrill that ran over her whole body. And until yesterday she had never seen him! She kneeled in the blurred half-light, pushing her wet hair back from her forehead and smiling up in the rain that still fell fast. In a few moments she rose and went on. At the gate of the Rosewood lane stood a mail-box on a cedar post and she paused to fish out a draggled Richmond newspaper. As she thrust it under her arm her eye caught a word of a head-line. With a flush she tore it from its soggy wrapper, the wetted fiber parting in her eager fingers, and resting her foot on the lower rail of the gate, spread it open on her knee.

She stood stock-still until she had read the whole. It was the story of John Valiant's sacrifice of his private fortune to save the ruin of the involved corporation.

Its effect upon her was a shock. She felt her throat swell as she read; then she was chilled by the memory of what she had said to him: "What has he ever done except play polo and furnish spicy paragraphs for the society columns?"

"What a beast I was!" she said, addressing the wet hedge. "He had just done that splendid thing. It was because of that that he was little better than a beggar, and I said those horrible things!" Again she bent her eyes, rereading the sentences: "Took his detractors by surprise • • • had just sustained a grilling at the hands of the state's examiner which might well have dried at their fount the springs of sympathy."

She crushed up the paper in her hand and rested her forehead on the wet rail. Idiotically rich—a vandal—a useless, purse-proud flaneur. She had called him all that! She could still see the paleness of his look as she had said it.

Shirley, overexcited as she still was, felt the sobs returning. These, however, did not last long and in a moment she found herself smiling again. Though she had hurt him, she had saved him, too! When she whispered this over to herself it still thrilled and startled her. She folded the paper and hastened on under the cherry-trees.

Emmaline, the negro maid was waiting anxiously on the porch. She was thin to spareness, with a face as brown as a tobacco leaf, restless black eyes and wool neatly pinned and set off by an amber comb.

"Honey," called Emmaline, "I'se been fearin' fo' yo' wid all that lightnin' r'arin' eroun'. Yo' got th' jess'-mine? Give 'em to Em'line. She'll fix 'em all nice, jes' how Mis' Judith like."

"All right, Emmaline," replied Shirley. "And I'll go and dress. Has mother missed me?"

"No'm. She ain' lef' huh room this whole blessed day. Now yo' barth's all ready—all 'cep'n th' hot watah, en I sen' Ranston with that th' fus' thing. Yo' hurry en peel them wet close off yo'se'f, or yo' have one o' them digested chills."

Her young mistress flown and the hot water despatched, the negro woman spread a cloth on the floor and began to cut and dress the long stalks of the flowers. This done she fetched bowls and vases, and set the pearly-white clumps here and there—on the dining-room sideboard, the hall mantel and the desk of the living-room—till the delicate fragrance filled the house, quite vanquishing the rose-scent from the arbors.

As the trim colored woman moved lightly about in the growing dusk, with the low click of glass and muffled clash of silver, the light tat-tat of a cane sounded, and she ran to the hall, where Mrs. Dandridge was descending the stairway, one slim white hand holding the banister, under the edge of a white silk shawl which drooped its heavy fringes to her daintily-shod feet. On the lower step she halted, looking smilingly about at the blossoming bowls.

"Don' they smell up th' whole house?" said Emmaline. "I know'd y'o be pleas', Mis' Judith. Now put yo' han' on mah shouldah en I'll take yo' to yo' big cha'h."

They crossed the hall, the dusky form bending to the fragile pressure of the fingers. "Now heah's yo' cha'h. Ranston he made up a little fiah jes' to take th' damp out, en th' big lamp's lit, en Miss Shirley'll be down right quick."

A moment later, in fact, Shirley descended the stair, in a filmy gown of India-muslin, with a narrow belting of gold, against whose flowing sleeves her bare arms showed with a flushed pinkness the hue of the pale coral beads about her neck. The damp newspaper was in her hand.

At her step her mother turned her head; she was listening intently to voices that came from the garden—a child's shrill treble opposing Ranston's stentorian grumble.

Settler Had No Hesitation in Declaring Encyclopedia Had Its Dry Spots.

Dudley Field Malone, the new collector of the port of New York, said to a reporter:

"I'm too new to my job to talk about it yet. If I talked about it I might, like the mountaineer, give away my ignorance.

"A man was hunting in Pike county, and up around Porters lake he visited a settler's house.

"He noticed a volume of a good encyclopedia on a shelf above the gun, and said:

"'It must be a handy thing away off here to have an encyclopedia.'

"'Yep,' said the mountaineer. 'Yep, she's handy. I only got the first book.'

"'Why haven't you got the others?'

"'I ain't finished this one yet, so I ain't ready for another. I bought this one off'n an agent about eight years ago. He come round six months afterwards and says, says he: "Here's yer second volume, mister."

"'"What?" says I. "Why, I ain't finished the first volume yet. You jest dig out!"

"'He dug, too. Nine year ago it was. I ain't more'n half through her yet. The wife, she's about quarter through. It took a lot o' brains to write this book, but it's my opinion, all the same, and I don't mind tellin' ye, that I think she's got her dry streaks, like most everything else.'"

Chinese Soldiers Are Good Fighters.

Till within the last two years or so, the general impression was that the Chinese soldier was intended to run away. The revolution of 1911 dissipated some of this absurdity. The events of the present year have dispersed the remainder. It is now recognized that there is no finer material than that which could be selected from among the sturdier of China's sons. Nothing is wanted but training, arms of precision, good leading and a good cause. With these, China could well hold its own. The improvements that have been made during recent years in such things can be appreciated only by those who know what the old troops, from the Bannermen downward, were like.—National Review, China.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR LEGISLATURE.

We are authorized to announce that D. W. Miller of Ferguson township will be a candidate for the office of Assemblyman, subject to the decision of the Democratic voters at the Primary election to be held May 19th. Pd.

I hereby announce as a candidate for the Democratic nomination as Representative in the General Assembly from Center county. Your vote and influence respectfully solicited. Primary election Tuesday, May 19.

JOHN A. WILLIAMS,
(paid) Port Matilda.

FOR CONGRESS.

To the Democratic voters of the Twenty-first Congressional district: I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Representative in Congress. Your support and influence solicited. Primaries May 19th.

EDWARD R. BENSON,
Mt. Jewett, Pa.

I hereby announce as a candidate for the Democratic nomination as Representative in Congress for the Twenty-first District. Your vote and influence respectfully solicited. Primary election Tuesday May 19th.

WM. E. TOBIAS,

STATE SENATOR.

We are authorized to announce that W. M. Cronister of Huston township will be a candidate for the office of State Senator subject to the decision of the Democratic voters at the Primary election to be held May 19th.

Clearfield, Pa., April 10, 1914.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE 34TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA:

DEAR SIRS:

I am a candidate for the office of State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Clearfield and Centre Counties, and respectfully solicit your support at both the Primary and General Elections.

If elected I will endeavor to faithfully and conscientiously represent the best interests of the whole people of my District.

I have never been a candidate for a State or County office. Most of my life has been spent serving my home people as best I could in offices of trust, principally along educational lines, etc., to which no compensation was attached.

It will be impossible for me to see personally many of the voters of my District, hence I solicit your support by mail.

Thanking you for any assistance which you may give me, I am,

Respectfully Yours,
(p'd) W. H. PATTERSON.

Lutheran—Georges Valley, morning, communion; Union, afternoon; Centre Hall, evening.

May's Weather.

The first half of May is about over and the weather man during that period handed out lots of sunshine and rain. The average temperature for the first twelve days was 76 degrees. In the same period over two and one-half inches of rain fell. Vegetation has made wonderful growth under nature's best two elements, and the average farmer is wishing that his oats and corn could have had a treat of the weather.

Sample Ballot.

In this issue appears a fac simile of the official Democratic ballot that will be handed Democrats before entering the booth next Tuesday. As a guide for Democrats who want to vote for the best men on the ticket, an "x" is placed opposite the names of candidates who represent the party in principle. Look this ticket over carefully.

Tobias, a Bi-partisan Candidate.

William E. Tobias, of Clearfield, candidate for congress in this district, would have Centre county Democrats believe that he is neither a reorganizer now an old guard, but simply, "Tobias." He is a bi-partisan, however, and no mistake of it. On May 13, in Bradford, this man Tobias appeared on the platform with Ryan and his manager Bonniwell, the latter a Philadelphia judge who wrote a letter of thanks to Penrose for his election to the bench.

What is the use in nominating Ryan for governor when he admits he cannot be elected. He has made this admission to more than one person, and it is the one expression he has made since seeking votes that the greater part of the Democrats believe.

Senator Penrose will be in Bellefonte today (Thursday). One of his most valued friends in Centre county is Meek of the Democratic Watchman. They are piping through the same horn today, just like they have been doing for ten or more years.

Speaking about Mr. Berry's ingratitude toward Guffey and Hall, the Watchman might have added that there was regret on the part of the Jims long ago that they aided Mr. Berry in his fight for the treasurership. The Jims were sick and tired of Mr. Berry as soon as he got after the capitol grafters. And, by the way, it was Mr. McCormick who stepped forward and furnished Mr. Berry with funds to prosecute the grafters. At that time the Jims' money was not available, and they would have rejoiced very much if there would have been no McCormick, so that Treasurer Berry would have been discredited.

The Washington Excursion.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company ran an excursion train to Washington, leaving Bellefonte Saturday night at ten o'clock, with six coaches. Five more were added along the line, and Washington was reached at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The sightseers were given a full day at the capital, leaving Washington at six o'clock in the evening. The stations from which tickets were sold on the L & T. Branch, and the number, follow: Bellefonte, 72; Lemont, 118; Linden Hall, 7; Centre Hall, 33; Rising Springs, 37; Coburn, 70; Glen Iron, 4; Millmont, 3.

Bryan to Speak for Reorganizers.

Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan on Wednesday evening spoke in Wilkes-Barre in behalf of Mr. Palmer, Mr. McCormick and other reorganization candidates for state offices.

Secretary Bryan some days ago expressed a desire to Congressman Palmer to speak in behalf of the men whose strong support of Wilson at Baltimore unquestionably made possible his nomination and subsequent election. The same forces which worked against good government then are active now in Pennsylvania and it is to aid the cause and resist their attacks that Mr. Bryan wanted to lend his voice.

Colonel Taylor.

Col. H. S. Taylor is a candidate for Congressman-at-large.

This is the same Col. Taylor who wrote letters to Democrats in Centre county and solicited their support for R. B. Taylor (brother Bert), a Republican, then a candidate for assembly against the late J. C. Meyer.

This is the same Col. Taylor who opposed Francis Speer for Recorder, and A. B. Lee for Sheriff.

This is the same Col. Taylor who a year ago did everything honorable and otherwise to defeat W. D. Zerby, then a candidate for state committeeman, and for no other purpose than to get the Democratic party in Pennsylvania back under the influence of Penrose, who now claims that many Democrats will vote for him next fall.

This is the same Col. Taylor who is shouting for Ryan for governor, and is one of the Democrats (?) Penrose is depending on for support at the general election next fall.

This is the same Col. Taylor the Huntingdon Monitor (Democratic in politics) says is a misfit for the job; that he is aiding Penrose; that he is sailing under false colors and secured signers to his petition in Huntingdon county under such conditions.

REBERSBURG

Robert Parks and family of Sunbury are visitors in this valley at present.

Mrs. Swabb and children of Lock Haven are visitors in this vicinity at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spangler of Kansas are visiting relatives at present in this valley.

Mothers day was observed at this place on Sunday in the Lutheran church. The house was crowded.

On Sunday the stork visited the home of Prof. Samuel Bierly and left twin babies, one of which died the same day.

James P. Frank is at present making preparations to put a new roof on his dwelling house; he will also have the building repainted.

O yes, the writer forgot to mention in last week's items that the stork visited the home of Samuel Gephart and left a wee little boy.

Charles Bierly, an old veteran of this place, has been seriously ill the past week, but at this writing his condition has somewhat improved.

On Sunday while Mrs. Thomas Royer was attending Mothers Day service she suddenly became ill. At this writing she has partly recovered.

Our farmers are greatly detained this spring in putting out their spring crops on account of the almost daily rains; and there is still some oats to be sown.

Wm. Bierly and C. C. Long are scouring the country and buying suckling pigs and shoats, also cattle. They contemplate holding a cattle sale in the near future.

Thomas Harter, a lumberman from Loganton, quite recently bought D. D. Royer's timber tract situated a short distance east of this place. Jacob Winkelblech is at present placing his sawmill on this tract and will convert the trees into lumber for Mr. Harter.

Mr. Byers, who bought the John Noll mill property situated a short distance north west of this place, and who moved to this place in April from Union county, is at present busy in repairing the mill and getting the same in readiness to manufacture flour.

Do not miss the opportunity to attend the primaries next Tuesday.

DEATHS.

Manassa H. Guise died at his home at Penn Hall, Friday of last week, death having been due to hardening of the arteries. His age was seventy-nine years, eleven months, and eight days. Interment was made in the Heckman cemetery Tuesday forenoon, Rev. D. M. Geesey of the Lutheran church officiating.

The deceased was a son of John Guise and was born in Sugar Valley near Boonville. When he was seven years old he was put into the Huston home east of Centre Hall, and was there reared.

Like was the custom in those days, Mr Guise learned a trade, selecting that of a carpenter. After mastering it, he made three trips to the west engaging in work at a number of places. Returning to Penn Hall he concluded to remain there, and after his marriage to Miss Matilda Leitzell, he erected a dwelling house at Penn Hall, the same now being occupied by Wallace Musser. At the opening of the war, he and Mrs. Guise moved into the Penn Hall hotel property, and during the conflict with the south they engaged in the hotel business. At the close of the war they moved to the home where the death occurred, living there continuously since.

Mr. Guise followed his trade until age incapacitated him. He was a member of the Lutheran church, and was always rated a desirable citizen in the community.

Mrs. Guise and two children, Clara, now Mrs. H. F. Rossman, of Spring Mills, and Mary, now Mrs. John G. Dauberman, of Centre Hall, survive. A son died in infancy.

Mrs. Jasper Brungart died at Rebersburg Tuesday night at eight o'clock of cancer, from which she had been a sufferer for a number of years. Her age was sixty-four years. Funeral services will be held at her late residence Friday morning by Rev. A. G. Stauffer of the Reformed church of which the deceased was a member, and interment will be made in the Union cemetery at Rebersburg.

Mrs. Brungart before her marriage to Jasper Brungart thirty-three years ago was Mary Long, and was born in Union county. No children were born to this union, and besides her husband there survives only one half-sister, living in Iowa.

A year ago Mrs Brungart was operated upon for cancer by Dr. Ball of Lock Haven, but found no relief. Her condition grew constantly worse until death overtook her.

The body of Edward Ishler was shipped from New York state to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ishler, at State College, from where he was buried on Saturday. Mr. Ishler died from Bright's disease, and was aged about twenty-seven years. A wife and two children, also two brothers and two sisters survive.

Mrs. Perry F. Barner died at State College of pneumonia, aged twenty-two years, nine months and nine days. Her maiden name was Grace Alberta Kuhn, and she was born at Pleasant Gap. She leaves a baby aged one month, and a daughter aged three years. Her husband, parents and five brothers also survive.

Mrs. Lydia Immel, relict of Andrew Immel, died at her home in Gregg township, death being due to paralysis, aged seventy-six years, one month and five days. Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at the Mountain church by Rev. J. M. Price of Spring Mills. Interment was made in the Mountain cemetery.

Isaac M. Thomas, a Civil War veteran, died at his home in Bellefonte, aged seventy-eight years. He was united in marriage with Miss Martha Reed, whom he leaves with the following children: Mrs. Lydia R. Gibson, Philadelphia; William A., Tyrone; Isaac M., Jr, Joseph D., Chester Arthur and Lulu, all at home.

William Oliver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Guiser, died on Monday of pneumonia. Interment will be made this (Thursday) forenoon at Wolf's Chapel, near which place the parents live. The funeral will be conducted by Rev. D. M. Geesey.

Mary Bernice, daughter of A. W. Witmer of near Hunters Park, aged fifteen months was laid to rest in the Myers cemetery.

BOOZE PEDDLERS SENTENCED.

Seven Offenders Behind Bars—Dispensers of Jamaica Ginger May Find Trouble.

That the court will back the efforts of the district attorney H. W. Aiken, in his endeavor to rid Mifflin county of booze peddlers was demonstrated during last week, when seven persons, Philip Pierce, Fred F. Brown, E. C. Nather, Clinton Dunn, C. H. Savercool, William Seitles and Samuel Eby, were sentenced to a minimum of three and a maximum of twelve months in jail, with $500 fine and costs. The authorities say there is a joker in the sentence, and unless the fine and costs are paid the maximum sentence must be served, as the insolvency law is not effective.

Constables in making quarterly returns called the attention of the court to the indiscriminate sales of Jamaica ginger, containing 96 per cent alcohol, while the sale of beer, with only 6 per cent, was forbidden. It is alleged that the profits of some merchants in this line exceed that of their legitimate trade.

Woodward.

Mrs. Israel Runkle who is working at Madisonburg spent Saturday and Sunday at her home.

Mrs. John Bower and brother from Northumberland spent a few days last week with their sister, Mrs. Phoebe Wise.

Miss Minnie Grenoble from Bellefonte is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Grenoble.

Master James Ard from Aaroneburg is visiting at the home of his grand parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Ard.

After spending a few weeks with her uncle at Waddle, Miss Mabel Fultz returned to her home on Tuesday.

A Ford car driven by Fred Herman, a grocery salesman, turned on its side while descending Nittany Mountain, at From's, on Monday afternoon. Mr. Herman was the only occupant of the car, and was thrown in such a manner that he was not injured. Several men who chanced to be nearby assisted in righting the machine, which was not injured to any great extent.

Miss Viola Harter finished teaching a term of public school at Keating Summit and is now at her home near Tusseyville.

McCORMICK IS THE MAN

The Only Man Who Can Lead the Democracy to Victory and Place it in Power in Pennsylvania.

And, Mr. Voter, it is up to you to put him in that position.

It will be your fault if you don't go to the primary next Tuesday and vote for the man who can win in November. Don't depend upon others—do your share by going to the polls and voting. The Gang never sleeps—its men are at work all the time—they will have their votes out.

The Democracy of Pennsylvania has cleaned house, they have repudiated the bi-partisan traders, the men who have brought such disgrace on the organization. Beat them this time and the fight will be over against the men who have been selling out your party for their own selfish personal benefit.

The Democratic party needs McCormick's leadership in the contest this year. The whole State recognizes his unusual qualities, his honesty, his tenacity of purpose, his high ideals, his character and the courage and determination with which he backs up his conviction.

The Democrats will do a great work for the State, for the Nation and for their party if they

ELIMINATING EIGHWAY SIGNS.

The Act of 1903 to be Vigorously Inforced —Same Prohibits the Placing of Advertisements Along Any Highway.

Hail to the spirit of latter day conservation of the beauties of nature. It is permeating every nook and corner of the government as well as the public life generally. Evidence of the former is coming to light in the notices which Highway Commissioner Bigelow is just sending out to all supervisors and township road commissioners, and to all district engineers of the state highway department, instructing them to enforce the provisions of the act of March 10, 1913, which provides a penalty of from five to twenty dollars for placing upon any property belonging to the state, county, township, borough or city any written, printed or painted advertisement by notice, sign or poster.

The mere passage of this law eleven years ago brought about a slight reform in this respect, but as there was no effort made to restrict the practice, there has been but little diminution in the number of signs which disfigure the side of the roadways of the state in all portions thereof. The vandalism in this respect always selects the most prominent and therefore the most sightly place, to paint, paste or post its announcement upon, and in a short time the elements have reduced it to a state in which it is a blot on the landscape and a nuisance to eyes of the wayfarer, while the mischievous boy has long thought it his especial duty and privilege to give the text an opposite turn by eliminating some of the words or letters where possible to give the remainder an obecene or humorous cast.

Commissioner Bigelow will rigidly enforce this law, together with another similar in character, providing a penalty where like advertisements are posted on private property without the consent of the owner, both of which are made a part of the notices he is just sending out. The movement is at the initiative of the National Highways Protective Society and similar action is taken simultaneously in the states of New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts, which have similar laws to prevent the defacement of the highways. If the movement just inaugurated substantially frees the highways of these unsightly and almost universal disfigurements the aid given to nature will be inestimable.

LARGE REAL ESTATE DEAL.

The Andrew Lytle Farm at State College to be Sold as Building Lots by Leathers Bros.

Leathers Brothers, the well known real estate men of Howard, conducted one of their famous lot sales at State College in 1908, which was a great success, and brought more people into State College in one day than any day before or since.

They have just taken over the Andrew Lytle farm, this being one of the largest real estate deals that has ever been handled in Centre county. This farm is at State College, and is one of the most desirable building points there. It adjoins the property which was sold by Leathers Brothers a few years ago. They are planning to hold a two-day auction lot sale in a few weeks.

At the present time the engineers are at work plotting and putting this attractive piece of property in selling condition. This property is located in the section where the last survey was made by the railroad company, and there are reasons to believe that there must be something officially done in this direction, as this firm has had this property under option for some time. This will mean two big days for Centre county, as these men have held sales in a great many counties through out the state, and their ability for handling real estate is well known.

The property which they sold in 1909 is practically all built up, and is the most attractive part of State College. It has not been learned if the company will run a free train as they did before, but they no doubt will. Last season with their novel way of handling real estate they gave away automobiles at their sales. It has not been announced, but, undoubtedly they will have something in store for this large sale. Later you will see more about the sale in this paper.

At the last sale conducted by this firm in State College, they gave away a free lot, which no doubt a great many of the readers will recall. Miss Irene McKinley, who was employed at the Shirt Factory in Bellefonte was the fortunate one to win the lot.

An old land mark in Boalsburg, the Weber property, will undergo extensive repairs this summer. It was in 1855 that Jacob Weber moved from Lebanon to Boalsburg, purchasing as his home and work shop the Weber property, then consisting of a frame dwelling house and cabinet-making shop. Mr. Weber was himself a cabinet-maker, and carried on that business and undertaking there. He was a fine mechanic, and made all the furniture he sold, and also made the caskets and coffins used in that period. On the retirement of the elder Weber his sons, Peter M. and Fred W., in succession succeeded him in the same business. During the latter years the cabinet-making shop was not in use, and the present owner, Samuel E Weber, will repair it, move the dwelling house a short distance from the corner, and build an addition to it. When completed the home will be equipped with all the modern conveniences.

In Thomas A. Edison's shops at West Orange, N. J., placards have been tacked up for the notice of 6,700 employees, with this inscription: "Cigarettes not tolerated; they dull the brain." He has joined Henry Ford in a war on cigarettes.

Spraying for Fruit.

Owing to the excessive wet weather it is possible that the state demonstrator may not be able to reach all orchards on schedule time to spray for fruit, and if it becomes necessary for owners of demonstration orchards to spray before that time, he requests that the following be observed:

Do not spray before the petals have practically all dropped. There is an interval of seven to ten days in which to perform the work.

For all pome fruits, apple, pear, and quince, use five quarts lime and sulfur solution, concentrated, and two pounds lead arsenate paste to forty-nine gallons water.

For all stone fruit, peach, plum and cherry, use three quarts lime and sulfur solution, concentrated, and two pounds lead arsenate to forty-nine gallons of water.

GROWING SUGAR BEETS

CLIMATE AND SOIL MUST BE TAKEN INTO CONSIDERATION.

Plant Does Remarkably Well at High Elevations From Fact That It Is Injured Very Little by Frost and Hailstorms.

(By C. S. KNIGHT.)

Experience has shown that the sugar beet reaches its highest development in the north temperate latitudes. Although the conditions of temperature must be taken into consideration in selecting localities for the growing of sugar beets, yet in addition to the thermal conditions must also be studied those of rainfall or water supply.

The sugar beet requires a certain amount of moisture in order to produce its normal crop. This water may be supplied by precipitation in the usual way, by irrigation, or else the soil must be of that particular quality which will allow subterranean moisture to reach the roots of the plants. The porous and sandy soils adjacent to rivers sometimes furnish a sufficient amount of subterranean moisture to produce a good crop in connection with the rainfall.

In general, beets require four or five months of growing weather for their successful production. In the West where the moisture is applied by irrigation, the crop may be harvested at a certain stage, thus making the conditions ideal. In the eastern sections of the country, where the moisture is applied by rainfall, a second growth may occur after maturity, caused by rain, which greatly reduces the sugar content of the beet.

The sugar beet does remarkably well at high elevations from the fact that it is injured very little by frost and hailstorms unless they are too severe or too early. Profitable crops of sugar beets are, however, seldom produced above the elevation of 5,000 feet.

Probably the best soil for sugar beets is a good, deep clayey loam with sufficient sand or silt to allow its being easily pulverized. Since the sugar beet is deep rooted it necessarily requires a deep soil. The low, wet soils are poorly adapted to this crop, as they are wet and prevent any rapid development in the early stages of growth, and the later growth continues beyond the time of maturity. Such soils produce a watery beet of low quality, resulting in a low sugar content. Soils which have a hard-pan formation within 18 inches of the surface should never be used for beets since they greatly interfere with root growth, and also have a tendency to lose moisture.

Stony and gravelly soils should be avoided, since they are incapable of holding water, and stony soils prevent the proper development in form of roots, which is essential for the highest quality of beets. Sandy soils which have a tendency to blow should never be used, as the young plants are frequently destroyed by strong winds. The sugar beet requires a deep, mellow soil, quite rich in available plant food and free from weed growth.

MAKING A GOOD WHITEWASH

When Mixed and Stirred Thoroughly Liquid Should Rest for at Least Forty-Eight Hours.

One-half bushel of lime slacked with boiling water. Keep covered while slacking to keep the steam in.

Strain the mixture and add a peck of salt dissolved in warm water, one-half a pound of Spanish whiting and one pound of glue previously melted over a fire and three pounds of ground rice, boiled to a thin paste.

Mix all together and then pour five gallons of hot water over it. After it is thoroughly stirred, allow it to stand for 48 hours. If it can be applied when hot it will be better and last longer.

Don't Inbreed.

If your poultry stock is limited, so that using the males you have will result in inbreeding—dispose of them and get males from another breeder of same breed. Often exchanges can be made with other breeders with advantage on both sides.

Poor Pasture.

Putting a fence around an old field or a woods lot is not making a pasture.

WELL-EQUIPPED WORK SHOP

Much Time and Money Can Be Saved by Making Repairs at Home on Farm Machinery.

A well-equipped work shop is convenient; it is economical; and it is almost a necessity to the successful farmer. Just how far the farmer should equip his shop will depend on the extent of his farming operations and his ability in handling tools. The average farmer, with adequate tools, can do all the ordinary repairing on his farm machinery.

As a rule, the farmer can do his own repairing much more quickly than he can go to the nearest shop and have a mechanic do the work. The farmer may not be able to make repairs equal to those made by a trained mechanic, but the economy of time may be of more importance than excellence.

Breakdowns are most frequent during the busy season, and much valuable time is sacrificed going to some distant shop. In many cases permanent repairs can be made at once, and in most instances temporary repairs can be made at the farm shop, provided the necessary tools and supplies are available.

AID TO SOIL PRODUCTIVITY

Modern Methods of Crop Rotation, Green Manuring and Fertilizing Help Potato Growers.

American potato growers will be interested in the fact that German farmers have found that many indirect benefits result from potato culture, through modern methods of crop rotation, green manuring and fertilizing.

The potato has played the greatest role in the agricultural development of light and fertile soils of eastern Germany, as the sugar beet has done in heavier soils. According to German specialists, these hoed root crops are beneficial to any soil, through the deep and thorough culture that is given them, with its resultant improvement in the physical condition and aeration.

The profits from the crop justify the liberal use of commercial fertilizers, from which there are important residual effects on other crops in the rotation. The clean culture practised also brings all weeds into thorough subjection. The yields per acre of all farm crops have been greatly increased since the extension of potato growing.

WASTE OF FEED PREVENTED

Box Attached to Side of Wagon Provides Excellent Substitute for Cumbersome Nose Bag.

A teamster who is obliged to feed his horses during the noon hour at the wagon has devised a feed box to take the place of a nose bag, writes Vinton V. Deturler of Manhattan, Kan., in Popular Mechanics. When the box is hooked over the top edge of the wagon box the height is just right for the horses. The box prevents waste of grain and provides a better way to feed the horses than in the wagon box.

GOOD CARE OF THE PIGEONS

While Much Can Be Learned About Squab Raising From Books Practical Experience Is Best.

Musty grain will cause disease among pigeons.

It is no easy matter to raise squabs and while much can be learned from books the only way is to get right down to the actual work.

The young require no care as the old birds look after them until they are ready for the market.

Every loft should have a good feed bin, divided into sections for holding different varieties of grains used. The list of pigeon grains might be classed as corn, wheat, kafir corn, Canada peas, hemp and millet.

Salt, oyster shell and charcoal are three substances very essential to the health of pigeons.

Difficulties in Nursing.

A good mother will sometimes starve the lamb because of sensitive, over-full teats. Wool will sometimes prevent the lamb from finding the teat, and after a few attempts it becomes discouraged and sometimes will not nurse after it is found for it. Usually after being once or twice well filled it will manage to nurse under great difficulties.

Build Up Run-Out Farm.

One of the surest and best ways to build up a run-out farm is to keep a good herd of cows and to put every pound of manure back on the land. Quite often a farm is judged by the cows it supports.

Lucky Thirteenth Man.

"Frederick, I'm sure you will forgive me," said the beautiful girl, bowing her head, "when you know the true reason of my breaking our engagement so soon. But when I became engaged to you I forgot—"

"What is it, Gladys?" he murmured sadly. "Be not afraid. Is it that you love another?"

"No, indeed," responded the girl indignantly, her eyes flashing at him through a veil of tears. "But you know how superstitious I am—I forgot that you would be exactly the thirteenth man I've been engaged to."

AFTER SUFFERING TWO LONG YEARS

Mrs. Aselin Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"After my little one was born I was sick with pains in my sides which the doctors said were caused by inflammation. I suffered a great deal every month and grew very thin. I was under the doctor's care for two long years without any benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try it we got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the third bottle of the Compound I was able to do my housework and today I am strong and healthy again. I will answer letters if anyone wishes to know about my case."—Mrs. JOSEPH ASELIN, 628 Monroe St., N. E., Minneapolis, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy we know for woman's ills. If you need such a medicine why don't you try it?

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

To cure costiveness the medicine must be more than a purgative; it must contain tonic, alterative and cathartic properties.

READY TO MEET THEM ALL

Girl Had Idea That Introduction to Distinguished Englishman With Peculiar Name Was a Joke.

Colonel Younghusband, hero of the British expedition to Lhassa, and the first white man who ever entered Thibet's sacred city, is rather embarrased at times because of his unusual name. "The trouble is," he said the other day, "that frivolous young people refuse to take your name seriously. At that, I think I have the advantage over Lord Sandwich, whose name also seems to be a subject for jest. While in Washington once Lord Sandwich attended a reception at the British embassy. He was introduced to an American girl, who labored under the delusion that the introduction was a joke. But she was not to be taken in. 'Lord Sandwich!' she exclaimed, 'I'm delighted to meet you. I suppose Lord Spongecake or Lord Pie will be here next!'"

TWENTY BOYS HURT IN MIMIC BATTLE

"Gen. Huerta" and "Gen. Funston" Carried From Battlefield.

HORSE THIEF SENTENCED.

To Prison For Seventeen Years For Horse Stealing—Brothers Crushed To Death—Father and Daughter May Die.

Boys Hurt In Mimic Battle.

Sunbury.—Twenty boys were hurt, two seriously, while more than one hundred were playing "Mexico and America at war." Those seriously hurt are John Payne, nearly scalped by a "saber" made from a barrel hoop, and Walter Egan, skull fractured and lacerations from a blow from a Mexican "machete" made from a baseball bat which had a wire spike in it.

Influenced by marches that had been going on nightly for weeks, boys of the Fourth Ward under Egan, who was "Huerta," and of the Third Ward, under Payne as "General Funston," started to play war.

Air guns, baseball bats, clubs, knives and boy-fashioned swords were pressed into use. The result was a fight, in which blood was shed. "Huerta" was defeated, but playmates carried the two generals off the field unconscious, and doctors were summoned.

Other "soldiers" had cuts and lacerations about the arms and legs, and suffered severe bruises. The battle lasted for more than half an hour. More than a hundred boys were soldiers, and each side carried colors, the Mexican flag being of the kind given away with cigarettes.

To Prison For 17 Years.

Bloomsburg.—John Kalanoski, of Black Creek Township, Luzerne county, convicted of stealing a horse of Boyd Ohl, pleaded guilty to having stolen the horse of Wesley Sitler, Centre Township, and was sentenced to pay fines aggregating $1,000 in the two cases and to undergo imprisonment for not less than seventeen years in the Eastern Penitentiary. Kalanoski is about fifty years old. Kalanoski implicated Paul Voynar, a Mahanoy City hotel man, then in court ready to testify against him, as the ringleader, and Joe Biski, of Hazleton, as the third member of the gang, which it is charged has been stealing horses in Columbia county for several years. A reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the thieves was offered by the Columbia County Commissioners. Voynar was arrested in the court room and is now in jail, while officers are hunting Biski.

Pottsville Tax Rate Raised.

Pottsville.—Pottsville City Council fixed the tax rate at ten mills, the highest in the history of the town. The increase is said to have been made necessary because $17,000 of the town's money, fees from liquor licenses, is held up by Court pending the decision of the appeal taken to the Supreme Court by liquor dealers, who are trying to knock out the city charter. If this money was available the tax rate could have been lowered instead of being raised, it is believed.

Father and Daughter May Die.

Allentown.—While Miss Alverta Clauser was undergoing an operation at the Allentown Hospital, her father was taken there in an ambulance for treatment for a fractured skull, received in a fall from a stepladder while at work. Both are in a critical condition and each is unaware of the plight of the other. Little hope is held out for the recovery of either.

Alleged Forger Acquitted.

Pottsville.—William F. Schartel, who was arrested by the State police at Allentown four weeks ago, charged with forging several checks in this vicinity and in Wilmington, Tyrone, New Hope, Allentown and Tamaqua, was found not guilty by direction of Judge Koch. It was a case of mistaken identity. The Court was told the wrong man had been arrested.

Leaves $2,000 To Church.

York.—The will of Mrs. Emma R. Smith was admitted to probate and contained bequests of $2,000 to the Board of Elders, of the Northern Diocese of the United Brethren Church; $2,000 to Moravian College; $2,000 in trust for the support of the pastor of the First Moravian Church, and $1,000 to the Visiting Nurse Association.

Prof. Smith Re-Elected At Media.

Media.—At the annual convention of the school directors of Delaware county, held here, Prof. A. G. Smith was re-elected superintendent. He has served about thirty years as superintendent and had no opposition. Several hundred teachers from various parts of the county were present.

Brothers Crushed To Death.

Lock Haven.—Jacob and Adam Englert, brothers, were crushed to death here, by a fall of tons of earth. They were stonemasons and were working on foundations of a building being erected by Charles Basinger. The earth had been loosened by the hard rains of yesterday.

KEEPS BABY FROM CRYING.

Young Love's Rivalry.

The following conversation between two little girls, Agnes and May, six and seven years old, respectively, was overheard one day:

Agnes accused May of having a little playmate, John by name, for a "fellow."

May said: "You do, too."

"Why do I?" asked Agnes.

"You let him walk under your umbrella," replied Little May.

"So do you; May."

"Yes; but you coax him under!" was May's quick retort.

HUMOR DISFIGURED BABY

Clarendon, N. C.—"My baby was broken out with a red, thick and rough-looking humor when about two months old. It would come in patches and went almost all over her in that way. The places were like ringworm and as they would spread they would turn red and make sores and itch. The trouble went to her face and disfigured her badly. Her clothes irritated it.

"I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I got a sample and in one night's time I could see a change in the redness and in two days the place would be nearly gone. I sent and got one twenty-five cent cake of Cuticura Soap and two fifty-cent boxes of Cuticura Ointment, which cured my baby. She was well in three months." M'CORMICK'S CLAIMS.

Right On Labor—Enthusiastically Supported Every Movement to Improve Agricultural Conditions—Aided in the Establishment of Political Reform.

No candidate before the people in years has combined so many elements of strength as Vance C. McCormick, Democratic candidate for Governor.

His position in favor of the rightful demand of labor is known of all men, and has been testified to by none other than the Secretary of Labor in President Wilson's cabinet, William B. Wilson, formerly for years Secretary-Treasurer of the International Mine Workers, known the country over as one of the greatest and most beloved labor leaders in America.

Vance McCormick's interest in everything that pertains to farmers is proved not only by his own active connection with the farming business, by his liberal and enthusiastic support of every movement designed to improve agricultural conditions and methods, by his active work as a Trustee of Penn State College, but by the long and powerful campaign he waged last year to prevent the Penrose machine from fastening upon the farmers of the State an extravagant and corrupt system of highway management which would have prevented for years an economical and efficient improvement of the roads of the State.

As a public spirited citizen, newspaper owner and philanthropist, he has contributed as much as any man in Pennsylvania during the last ten years to the upbuilding of the progressive political sentiment, the eradication of political abuses, and the establishment of political reforms.

As a former Mayor of Harrisburg he displayed administrative ability of the very highest order, and caused that city to enter upon an era of improvement which has made it one of the cleanest, most beautiful and most healthful cities in the State.

His recent political career has been signalized by the most intelligent and the most earnest efforts toward placing the Democratic Party upon a high plane of freedom, independence, honesty and progressiveness.

A man with such claims is worthy of the support of every good citizen.

Vote for Vance McCormick in the Democratic primaries on May 19th.

RYAN AND HIS CHURCH

The Public Ledger Says Ryan, a Catholic, Dragged the Religious Question Into the Campaign.

The Public Ledger does not believe that Mr. Ryan should be nominated by the Democrats for Governor, but it has not reached this conclusion through "bigotry." The mere fact that this charge was made is the most unfortunate part of Mr. Ryan's candidacy, and is the controlling reason why it should be undesirable to nominate him for the office he seeks. Whether or not through his connivance or sympathy, the fact remains that his candidacy has introduced into the campaign the delicate question of religion, which has been sedulously promoted by his supporters. Mr. Ryan himself has not been free from this error. He has acted as though any opposition to him is due to religious prejudice against him. The same unfortunate suggestion arose when he was a candidate for City Solicitor, at which time the Public Ledger supported his candidacy, and sought in every way possible to promote his election; when success crowned its efforts, Mr. Ryan was among those who warmly thanked the Public Ledger for its services in his behalf.

Mr. Ryan in that campaign embarrassed his supporters by his supersensitiveness and his unfortunate disposition to drag the religious question into the campaign. It is most deplorable to introduce into a political contest the question of religion, and Mr. Ryan and his friends have been exceedingly tactless and ill-advised to bring in the name of the church in connection with his race for the Governorship. So far as the Public Ledger has ascertained, there is no opposition to Mr. Ryan in any quarter because he is a member of the Catholic church, and that question would never have been thought of had it not been forced into the issue by his own supporters. It certainly has not influenced this newspaper in its attitude toward Mr. Ryan, for it was as fully aware, when it warmly supported him for City Solicitor, as it is today, of his religious affiliations.

The Public Ledger does not believe Mr. Ryan is fitted by temperament or political association to be the nominee for Governor. It believes it would prove a catastrophe for the Democratic party if he should be the nominee. This newspaper regards Mr. Ryan as a capable lawyer, an eloquent speaker, a patriotic citizen; but he can be all this and be entirely unsuited for the important position to which he aspires. Since he has been City Solicitor he has been unfortunate enough to come into violent conflict with almost every public official at the City Hall. He is supersensitive, excitable and quickly aroused to anger; he lacks poise and balance, and for this reason is disqualified for the Governorship.

Whether of Mr. Ryan's seeking or not, the fact remains that his candidacy is supported, promoted and chiefly maintained by the discredited wing of the Democratic party, whose bipartisan alliance with the Penrose machine marks one of the blackest and most unfortunate epochs in the political history of Pennsylvania. The Democratic party fell into disrepute in Pennsylvania until it became a negligible factor on account of low intrigue and corrupt manipulation at the hands of a few discredited bosses who had a secret alliance with the lowest and worst elements of the Republican machine. Between them they produced the horrid record of municipal misgovernment and State scandals which have blemished the history of our city and commonwealth.

Two years ago through the patriotic endeavors and courage, honesty, energy and ability of a band of sincere Democratic patriots, disgusted with the record of the bi-partisan coterie of gangsters, calling themselves Democrats, a determined effort was made to exterminate this brood of politicians. When the issue was in the balance and the slightest error would have meant disaster, where was Mr. Ryan? Although a few weeks before he had been elected City Solicitor of Philadelphia by the suffrage of at least 80,000 non-partisan reformers, he left his office in this city and went to Harrisburg to engage in that convention, and certainly not to aid the reorganizers. Whether or not he himself personally assisted the discredited bipartisan gang, his present friends and his chief supporters were the soul and spirit of the movement to resist the efforts of the honest Democrats to reorganize, but, fortunately for the State, for the city, and for the credit of the Democratic party, they met with overwhelming defeat.

The nomination of Mr. Ryan now would mean the overthrow of those reorganizers and a return to power in the Democratic party of the intriguers, manipulators and discredited bosses who brought disgrace upon their party during the last decade. The Public Ledger does not charge that Mr. Ryan personally is either sympathetic with or is active in this faction, but his nomination would mean victory for it.

From Chicago.

From Chicago, the great city of the middle west, J. W. Grenoble, a hardware dealer, writes the Reporter thus:

Inclosed find $1 50 for Reporter from May 1914 to May, 1915. Times were a little slack last winter, but the opening of spring business also greatly improved.

CENTRE OAK

COURT PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the Honorable Ellis L. Orvis, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the Forty-ninth Judicial District, consisting of the county of Centre, having issued his precept bearing date the 24th day of March, 1914, to me directed for holding a Court of Common Pleas, Orphans Court, Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, in Bellefonte, for the county of Centre, and to commence on the being the 18th day of May, 1914, and to continue two weeks.

THIRD MONDAY OF MAY,

Notice is hereby given to the Coroner, Justices of the Peace, Aldermen, and Constables of said county of Centre, that they be then and there in their proper persons at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the 18th, with their records, inquisitions, examinations, and their own remembrances, to do those things which to their office appertains to be done and those who are bound in recognizances, to prosecute against the prisoners that are or shall be in jail of Centre county, be then and there to prosecute against them as shall be just.

Given under my hand at Bellefonte, the 23rd day of January, in the year of our Lord, 1914, and the one hundred and thirty-eighth year of the Independence of the United States of America.
